Many of you have spent years, some of you decades, building something that matters. Your staff rely on it and your clients trust you with their information. Across the region, local businesses sponsor junior sport and give young people their first job.

What a cyber incident can cost

A cyber incident can stop your team working, lock you out of key systems and expose client information.

Recovery takes time, money and trust. Businesses that prepare early are in a stronger position when something goes wrong.

A LOCAL EXAMPLE

In 2024, Barnett's Couriers, a family-owned Wollongong transport company with more than 40 years of service, experienced a significant cyber attack. The business later ceased trading.

Attacks are changing

Attackers now use AI to write more convincing phishing emails and to target many businesses at once. Protection needs to keep pace.

Preparing early is how you protect what you've built.

IT&T is a local technology company with heart and soul. Our role is to stand beside you with knowledge, protection and support.
